SAVED FROM SINKING.

Man, Horse and Wagon Almost Engulfed by a Cave-in.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 30.—Oscar Santee, with his horse and wagon, came near being buried alive on one of the principal streets of this city. They were passing over an abandoned air-way, when the rotten timbers gave way and the earth began to sink.

Santee jumped, but did not escape the landslide. He was engulfed up to his shoulders when reached by a number of men who saw his peril.

The horse and wagon had almost disappeared from sight when ropes were placed about the animal and it was drawn out of the cave.

BAILEY DEFEATED KELLY.

Kansas Governor Outpounded the State Treasurer.

Governor Bailey and State Treasurer Kelly had a match at "pounding the machine" at Osage City Thursday, and the governor gave it the hardest blows. It was not a political machine, however, but one of these strength-testing arrangements where one hits a spike with a heavy maul.

A street fair has been in progress in Osage City, conducted by a private mid-way company, and yesterday was old soldiers' day. A number of the state officers were invited to be present, and Governor Bailey and Senator Burton were asked to speak. They did so, speaking in the big tent between the vaudeville acts.

After the speeches the governor challenged Mr. Kelly to pound the machine. Kelly hit it first and registered 450 pounds. Governor Bailey made it 500. The bystanders were inclined to criticize their efforts, so they took another round at it. This time Kelly made a record of 750 pounds. Governor Bailey said that he had to do something extraordinary, so he pulled off his coat, got a good swing on the maul, and put the register up to 800 pounds.

Afterwards it was proposed that both should take a ride on the merry-go-round, but Governor Bailey balked on this. He offered to hold the coats of the others, though, while they took a ride, but Mr. Kelly back out about the time the machine started and slid off his horse.

SOLDIERS CUBAN BRIDES.

Five Fair Senoras Return to United States With Artillerymen.

New York, Oct. 30.—When the United States transport Kilpatrick reached her dock, at Pier 14 East River, five brides were among the first to walk across the gangway. The young women were Cuban girls who lost their hearts to as many of the soldiers of the 10th Cavalry, and who did not waver in their determination to follow their husbands to the new land.

With four full companies of artillery on board, the brides came in for much attention from the moment the transport left Havana. This is the last detachment of troops to leave the island, and it was said that many a pretty dark-eyed girl was disconsolate when the steamer sailed away.

LODGE WON'T TALK.

The Senator Declines to Discuss the Boundary Decision.

New York, Oct. 30.—On account of his official connection with the Alaskan tribunal, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, declined to discuss the award of the tribunal on his arrival here today by the steamer Cedric.

Senator Lodge said the members of the tribunal had been very handsomely treated while in London, but as one of the arbitrators, he could not even venture to say that he was satisfied with

BURIED 146 YEARS.

Founder of Easton Removed to Another Tomb.

Easton, Pa., Oct. 30.—The grave of William Parsons, who founded Easton in 1748, was opened today, and the remains were taken out, pending the lowering of the bottom of the grave in order that it might conform to the new grade of the ground in which the bones will repose.

The body was originally buried in the German Reformed graveyard, but all the remains there were disinterred and the site appropriated for the new Carnegie library, which is tomorrow to be turned over to the trustees. Parsons' body, however, was left as a mark of special remembrance. Dr. E. M. Green, of the school board, and Dr. B. R. Ehl, of the library trustees, were present when the remains were removed.

The skeleton was well preserved, though the bones had lain in the grave for 146 years.

William Parsons died in Easton in 1797, after he had laid out the town and built what was then the finest residence in the place. It is still standing at Fourth and Ferry streets, though its original outlines have been affected by additions. George Taylor, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, lived in the house after Parsons' death.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 30.—Humbert Cattellina and Marin J. Pliskur, Italian miners, fell from a cage descending into the Minnie Hoar mine this morning and striking the dump 1,000 feet below, were instantly killed. Cattellina's head was severed from his body which struck a projecting beam in the descent.

Triumphant "Hiawatha." The massed bands of central Illinois played "Hiawatha" today, despite the heat, proof of the corn exposition management. The management had ordered that the popular march be cut out of the programme because it had been worn threadbare, but as the bands swung along the street, filling the air with the familiar melody, the crowds cheered so lustily that the musicians still further defied the heat. Previous to this episode the Peoria park board had requested Spencer's band to omit "Hiawatha" from the Sun-

EVADING CUSTOM DUTIES

Planting Vuelta Sprouts on Bondy & Lederer's Plantations.

Young tobacco plants are brought over from the Vuelta Abajos district of Cuba and are transplanted in carefully chosen spots on southern soil, near the tropical Gulf of Mexico. Those that thrive are sprouted and multiplied, until good sized crops are raised.

Natural processes of curing are used, and a perfectly delicious, genuine Vuelta tobacco is obtained for the first time in America. Escaping the enormous import duties, Bondy & Lederer are able to offer a high grade cigar with a fine mild Vuelta filler for 5 cents. This filler is now used only in the TOM KEENE cigar and is the best value ever offered.

If your dealer will not pay the price for such a high grade article you can buy it in the next block, for most dealers have it.
